

THE NATIONAL REGISTER CATALOGUE OF FOUND AND RESCUED HERITAGE ROSES.

It is with pleasure and pride that the Register Team publishes this catalogue of found and rescued rare roses. The result of four years of concerted planning, research, education, publicity, liaison and search, it has been achieved with the support and assistance of members throughout the country.

Many of the mother plants were old and sick when we found them and some have since died but all of the roses on this list are growing safely at Brandy Hill and some are in other public and private gardens. We have made every effort to confirm the identities of these roses but do not give any guarantees.

This catalogue does not contain the names of the found roses that we have not yet succeeded in propagating, the names of the many unidentified family roses and the varieties that were collected this year but whose success rate hasn't been confirmed. There are still a number of rare roses growing at Brandy Hill which have not yet been released to the Register and so are not on this list yet.
